IMPROVING LIVES IN Greater Dayton

YOUR HOMETOWN BANK
Since 1853, Fifth Third Bank has proudly called Southwest Ohio home. Our bankers work hard to earn the business and trust of our Greater Dayton neighbors and friends, providing smart financial tools and solutions to help them improve their lives and achieve their financial goals.

We’re also committed to enhancing the wellbeing of our communities, annually working with hundreds of non-for-profit organizations. Employees volunteer thousands of hours as mentors, advocates and providers of financial literacy programs like the Fifth Third Young Bankers Club® and the American Banker Association’s Teach Children to Save®. This outreach is part of our five-year, $30 billion commitment to community, which runs through 2020 and exemplifies our commitment to healthy and sustainable communities through lending, investment and strategic support.

Greater Dayton employees celebrated Fifth Third Day (May 3rd), with an annual tradition of generating awareness for the many in our communities who are impacted by hunger. This year, non-perishable food items were collected at our twenty-one Montgomery County financial centers. In the third year of our Strike Out Hunger campaign at Fifth Third Field, food was also collected prior to each home game during the Dayton Dragons’ late April home stand. The donated items and additional employee financial contributions benefited the clients of Dayton’s Foodbank, Inc.

In 2016, all of the Fifth Third regions helped to provide more than half million meals to help feed our communities.
